THE SUPREME COURT. ONLY FOUR OPINIONS HANDED

DOWN IN THIS TRIBUNAL,

BRUNSWICK LAND TRANSACTION. The Lower Court Reversed in Case of Suit Brought to Annul a Deed-

Following are digests of the four opinons handed down in the Supreme Court of Appeals yesterday:

PURCHASING FROM ONE'S SELF. Harrison vs. wife vs. Manson, &c. Reversed. Opinion by Keith, P.:

Turnbull was trustee in a deed from H, to secure a debt of about $700 and interest. He sold the land, and reported Manson as the purchaser, for $300. The bill asks that the deed to Manson be annulled for fraud, alleging that Turnbull was himself the purchaser. The fact is, howevere, that the $900 bid was made by Turnbull in the interest of another creditor of H., whose debt would otherwise be wholly lost.

Held: 1. The plea of "not guilty" was not such an election to pursue a remedy in one forum as to preclude resort to another. Had the plea been sustained, the deed from Turnbull to Manson would still have been on record, and been such a cloud on the title as to give equity jurisdiction to remove it. 2. While it is true that there is not a particle of evidence in the record having even a tendency to prove actual fraud or moral turpitude against Turnbull, the sale to Manson for the benefit of another creditor of H. cannot stand. Con-ceding that he had no motive nor desire to injure H.; that no better bid could have been obtained, and that the price was a fair one; yet to all these consider-ations the eyes of the court are closed by an inexorable principle of public policy. He was the trustee for H. to sell the land, and he could not, so long as that relation existed, become the purthat relation existed, become the pur-chaser himself, or purchase as the agent of another. Ex parte James, 8 Vesey, 345; Buckels vs. Lafferty's Legatees, 2 Rob., 292; Howery vs. Helms, 20 Gratt., 1. 3. Measure of relief. To require Turn-bull, when guilty of no actual fraud, to surrender the property discharged of the lien would be to perpetrate a greater wrong, in the name of equity, than that of which appellants complain. He should be protected to the extent of permitting be protected to the extent of permitting himself to hold the legal title to the land until appellant pay the amount advanced by him on the original debt se-cured, and the sum paid by him to the subsequent creditor. If not so paid, an account should be taken, if requested by any party in interest, of the rents and profits since it was sold, and of any permanent improvements thereon; and when these accounts have been settled the pro-perty should be sold and the proceeds applied in accordance with the principles herein stated.

FORFEITED POLICY. Aetna Life Insurance Company vs. Rags dale's Administrator. Reversed. Opinion by Harrison, J. On November 13, 1893, the insurance company insured Ragsdale's life for $1,000, for twenty years, the annual premiums to be paid at or before 5 o'clock P. M. on the 13th day of November each year during the term of the policy. On No-vember 12, 1894. Ragsdale wrote to Balti-more agents of company, asking for extension of time for second premium, about due, to which they replied, November 13th, agreeing to extension until December 13th, and enclosing a note payable on that day for said premium, without grace. The note expressly stated that it was given to extend time of payment, and if not paid at maturity, there would be if not paid at maturity, the words no further extension; and "said policy shall then cease and determine, and be treated in all respects as if the note and extension had not been given

On December 10, 1894, Ragsdale wrote the agents requesting further extension to which they replied on December 11th, complying with his request, but enclosing a note similar to the former, to be signed by him, and returned in due course of

On night of December 13, 1894, Ragsdale was taken sick, and his brother-in-law, now his administrator, called to see him. To this time Ragsdale had taken no action as to the last letter. At the for mer's suggestion, instead of signing and returning note, the latter forwarded the cash, December 14th, in the morning, in cash, December 14th, in the morning, in a post-office order, Ragsdale died at 3:30 P. M. that day. The letter and post-office order were received by the agents at Baltimore December 15th, and on that day they replied, refusing to accept the cash, as the note fell due December 13th, and stating that Ragsdale was not insured after that date, but enclosing a health certificate, which, if filled out and returned with the premium, the premium ed with the premium, the premium

Held: 1. While forfeitures are not favor ed by the law, yet any agreement, declaration, or course of action on the part of the insurance company which honestly tends to make assured believe that his policy has been extended, will and ought to stop company from insisting on a forfeiture, though it might be claimed under the express letter of the contract. Insurance Company vs. Eggleston, 96 U.

2. The right of recovery here depends upon whether the letter of December 11, 1894, constituted a completed contract between the parties, which bound the company to carry the policy in force till December 31, 1894. It seems clear that the extension note and the receipt to be given therefor, when executed, were together to constitute the contemplated ex-tension contract. Despite the warnings of the company, Ragsdale did not do his part, and the payment of the premium after policy had lapsed could not ope-rate to revive it, except with consent of the company.

"It is clear that the insured has lost the benefit of this policy in consequence of his own neglect and through no fault of the company."

Shipman vs. Fletcher. Reversed in part. Opinion by Buchanan, J. There was a decree in March, 1888, in compliance with a mandate from this court, directing F. to pay S. $1,467.70, costs of suit in the Circuit and Supreme courts. Shipman afterwards brought suit in the District of Columbia to enforce the de-cree. In April, 1888, S. assigned the decree to Waters. On the hearing the court below decreed in favor of F.'s administrator for $750, with interest. Held: Appellee's motion to dismiss "because the only matters in controversy, and the only errors alleged are as to costs and interest on costs," cannot be sustained. While the decree of March. 1888, upon which the court below refused interest, which is the principal error complained of on this appeal, was for costs yet not for costs in this case. If S. had brought action to recover judgment on had ruled erroneously against either party, this court would have jurisdiction to correct the error upon the application of either party, if the injury amounted to $500. So, if he asserted the same demand in equity, either as plaintiff, or by way of set off as defendant against plaintiff's demands, as in this case, and the court erroneously allowed or refused to allow interest thereon, or committed other error to the prejudice of either party, to the amount of $500, the injured party could appeal to this court.

2. When Shipman pledged the decree as security for costs, he put it beyond his power to collect the proceeds to his own use or his assignees, but not to obtain judgment thereon, and so render it an interest bearing debt. The effect of Fletcher's injunction was to enable him to retain money which he owned Ship-man, and thereby have the use of it pending the litigation between them, and to prevent Shipman from getting judgment upon his decree. In all cases the safe and sound doctrine is that if a party, though restrained from paying, holds and uses the moneyand use is presumed—he ought to pay interest. Money is worth its interest, and if the holder does not think so, he and if the holder does not think so, he always has the privilege of paying into court. If he should pay interest, where restrained from paying a debt by the act of another, a fortiori, must be do so where he himself has enjoined payso where he himself has enjoined pay-ment? Accident at a Gas-Plant-In a Criti-

When the physician arrived the faintest heart-beat could not be de-tected, and it was thought Mr. Bowen was dead, but powerful stimulants re-

YOUR HEALTH TOO IMPORTANT TO BE THIFLED WITH. The Most Skilled and Experienced

Physician Should Alone Be

You would not send your piano to the blacksmith's for repairs. No one would give a valuable watch, or a handsome clock, to an inexperienced man to be cleaned. Experience is as necessary as knowledge. The most delicate mechanism known is that of the human body. A slight derangement improperly handled often leads to a life of sickness and misery. If there is ever a time when only the most skilful and sagacious man should be consulted, it is when you are in need of a doctor.

The tendency grows stronger every day toward making a specialty of certain branches of the study. The consequence is, that to-day we find many practitioners devoting their entire lives and zeal to the treatment and cure of certain derangements. No longer, except in small country towns, is the family physician required to fulfil every function from pulling teeth even to decently arranging the body after death. As science has advanced, the great tendency has been to omit many of the poisonous and powerful mineral remedies. The study of herbs has been entered into deeply. It has become the policy of the physician to coax and entice Nature in the way she should go. No longer is she absolutely driven and continually harassed by being obliged to contend against the administration of poisonous drugs.

No branch of this divine science has poisonous drugs.

No branch of this divine science has No branch of this divine science has needed more careful attention than that which has made a study of the blood and the nerves. From these two great vital sources does life spring. If either of these important functions become deranged, the entire system suffers. The great vital ways of the body set sympathetically. organs of the body act sympathetically and fail to perform their duties. Illness, misery, and suffering, if not frequently sudden, and often lingering, death, is the inevitable result.

There is no better known specialist for diseases of the blood and nerves to be found anywhere to-day than Dr. Greene of 35 west Fourteenth street, New York city. Dr. Greene understands the human system thoroughly. His years of experience have given him a knowledge that is invaluable. The thousands of people that he has helped and cured are to-day ample proof of his skill. The world is full of other sufferers who should consult this most successful of physicians. He is beyond the reach of no one. The matter beyond the reach of no one. The matter of a lack of money need never be a barrier against learning how to regain lost health. Dr. Greene may be consulted personally, or by letter, free. He will give such advice in each individual case as will, when followed, procure the quickest and most happy results. Dr. Greene's Nervurs, blood and nerve remedy, which have middly known is the prescription. is so widely known, is the prescription of this eminent specialist, and is the outof this eminent specialist, and is the outcome of what he has learned in the many years that he has been practicing. It is the greatest blood and nerve remedy, and, therefore, a general invigorant and rejuvenator, known to the world to-day.

When you place your most valued treasure—your health—in Dr. Greene's hands, you may rest assured you have done all you may rest assured you have done all that can be done. You will quickly see that you are being handled by an expert that you are being handled by an expert who has no equal. You may rest assured that he will give you back your health and prolong your life, if it is in the power of human skill to accomplish such an end. It will cost you nothing, remember, to write to Dr. Greene and learn directly from him of his wonderful treatment. He will tell you in his letter to you exactly will tell you in his letter to you exactly what alls you, and explain your condition, so that you can perfectly understand your complaint. He will also advise you just what to do to be cured. Do not fall to call upon or write to Dr. Greene about your case at once. Remember it will cost you nothing.
